One Planet unites students

THE ONE Planet Education Network (Open) hosted a 90-minute video-conference for dozens of students in Greece, the US, the UK and Jordan on September 18. The unique initiative was part of the September 11, 2001 World

Trade Centre Memorial Design Programme and its aim was to promote global peace. The event, hosted from New York by George Newman, the president of Boston-based e-learning company Open, was part of a programme designed to gather students and teachers from different countries to discuss various issues relating to war and peace and to build bridges of friendship throughout the world. Students exchanged views and opinions about terrorism and the impact of September 11.
